REQUISITES FOR ADMISSION.

Applicants for admission to the Freshman Classes are examined in the studies of the Preparatory Courses.

Candidates for advanced standing in either course are examined in all the studies previously pursued by the classes which they propose to enter.

Equivalent studies in the same departments of learning will be accepted in place of those enumerated. On presentation of proper certificates, students may be admitted without examination in studies that have been successfully pursued in other schools. Evidences of good moral character are required in all cases; and certificates of honorable dismission are expected from those who come from other colleges.

German may be substituted in the Junior year of the Classical Course for a portion of the Greek and Higher Mathematics; and in the Scientific Course, the entire time allotted to French and German may be devoted to one of them.

COMMERCIAL DEPARTMENT.

The Business Course of Instruction properly embraces four departments — Preparatory, Junior, Middle, and Senior — to which may be added a fifth class — Ornamental Penmanship and Pen Drawing. Each department is sub-divided into three Divisions — A, B, C. In each department the student is required to stand an examination, Scholarship and Deportment being marked on the College Register.

PREPARATORY.

Includes a thorough analysis of the nature and uses of the different books kept by business men, Language of Trade, and Commercial Definitions.

DIVISION A.

Introduces the student to a miniature business world, in which he leases a store, invests capital, engages salesmen, purchases a stock of goods at the Merchants' Emporium, and commences life as a merchant.

DIVISION B.

Continues the business already commenced, introducing exercises in Ruling, Spelling, and Business Correspondence, with frequent examinations.

DIVISION C.

New and more intricate transactions are introduced in business, involving a thorough understanding of the rule of journalizing.

Frequent drills in Ledger Headings, Closing of Books, Business Papers, and Penmanship.

JUNIOR.

This Department includes Complete Accounts, Forwarding and Commission, Mercantile Correspondence, Commercial Arithmetic, and Commercial Law.

DIVISION A.

Embraces more advanced transactions in trade, introducing a new form of Double Entry Bookkeeping, in which a less amount of writing is necessary to give a clear and accurate account of business transactions than in any form of single entry now in use.

DIVISION B.

Here he commences business with assets and liabilities of previous set, admitting a partner with additional capital; introducing transactions in Shipping and Commission, use of Bills of Exchange, Notes, Checks, and Drafts, Account of Sales, together with Discounting Business with the Bank, and Partnership Sales, with exercises in Spelling and Defining.

DIVISION C.

Comprises Wholesale and Retail Merchandising, Jobbing, Joint Stock Companies, Discounting Notes with Bank, Equation of Payments, short methods of Addition and Multiplication, Mercantile Correspondence, and Business Forms.

MIDDLE.

This Department contains the most difficult and complicated transactions that can possibly occur in business, testing to the utmost the student's knowledge of the principles of the science.

DIVISION A.

Method of changing books from Single to Double Entry represented with great clearness; second method of Compound Companies, and a great variety of interesting and difficult computations introduced. Examinations daily.

DIVISION B.

First set of Forwarding and Commission transactions become still more complicated, and illustrate a great variety of entries, rendering the merchant expert in Journalizing, Law of Promissory Notes, Drafts, Bills of Exchange, etc.

DIVISION C.

Comprises a thorough, practical review of actual business. Examinations daily in Arbitration of Exchange, Discounting Notes, Equation of Payments, including the more intricate problems in Forwarding and Commission, where losses have been sustained by accident in transit, by fire, etc., with examples in Bankruptcy.

SENIOR.

This Department contains the Express, Steamboat, and Railroad Offices, Merchants' Emporium, and Banks.

DIVISION A.

This Division is devoted to Express, Railroad, Steamboat, Insurance, Exchange, and Real Estate Business. Through these offices all freight is passed by parties representing various interests in different parts of the country, to others at opposite ends of the lines. Each student is required to fill the several positions in offices, each in regular gradation, until he becomes familiar with the entire routine of business.

DIVISION B.

This is the Merchants' Emporium, and represents business as conducted in a first-class wholesale establishment in one of the great cities. From this establishment all students purchase their first stock of goods, and through its offices all merchandise is shipped and actually delivered.

Upon emerging from this thoroughfare of business life, and sustaining a critical examination in all the previous Departments and Divisions, together with an analysis of Commercial Law, if found qualified, he is introduced to

DIVISION C.

This contains the College Banks, which are actual Banks of Deposit, Discount, and Circulation, having regular subscriptions for Shares of Stock, issued as complete in every appointment as any chartered city institution.

Provided with their own Bills, Specie, Checks, Notes, Bills of Exchange, etc., etc., furnished with full sets of books, and the business done with as much accuracy and dexterity as in the most complete establishment in the metropolis, students act in every capacity, from Bookkeeper to President, holding the regular offices in their turn. No similar institutions in the country are conducted more in accordance with State and National Laws on Banking than are these. After passing through this Department, if proper attention has been paid during the course, the student sustains an examination, and is awarded a Diploma as Master of Accounts, which assures him, if accompanied with the other qualifications necessary in any vocation in life — energy and perseverance — an honorable place in the arena of active life, and, eventually, competence.

MISCELLANEOUS INFORMATION.

LOCATION.

Upper Iowa University is located at Fayette, Fayette County, Iowa, on the Davenport & St. Paul and the Dubuque & Pacific Railways (the latter will probably be completed the present season), and about six miles from Maynard, on the Burlington, Cedar Rapids & Minnesota Railway. Daily stages connect Fayette with Maynard, West Union, Volga City and Elkader. The village contains about one thousand inhabitants; and in salubrity of climate, beauty of situation, and morality, quietness, and hospitality of its citizens, it is unsurpassed. The University building is a substantial structure of hewn stone, and contains ample accomodations for the appointments of the School. The Campus consists of twelve acres of beautifully located and ornamented grounds, which overlook the village and river.

COURSES OF STUDY.

The Classical and Scientific courses correspond to the same courses in the leading American colleges, and require each four years for their completion. The Preparatory course requires two years. The Grammar School Department, under the charge of able and experienced teachers, affords superior advantages to those students who wish to pursue the branches of study taught in the Public and High Schools, and, especially, to those preparing to teach. The Departments of Music (including instruction on piano and organ), Painting and Drawing, Commercial and Telegraphy are all in successful operation.

MATRICULATION.

All who enter the University are expected to conform to its usages and regulations.

The Rules of the Institution are based alone upon the moral and social requirements of good society; and students who are not able and willing to deport themselves as ladies and gentlemen, will not be allowed to maintain their connection with the School.

ATTENDANCE AND SCHOLARSHIP.

A record is kept of the Scholarship and general Deportment of each student, an abstract of which is sent to the parents or guardian at the close of each term.

EXAMINATIONS.

At the close of every term there are public examinations of all the classes, in both Collegiate and Preparatory Departments.

DEGREES.

The degree of Bachelor of Arts is conferred upon all students who have completed the prescribed Classical Course of study, and passed a satisfactory examination therein; and the degree of Bachelor of Science upon all who have completed the Scientific Course, and passed a similar examination.

The degree of Master of Accounts will be conferred on all who complete the Commercial Course, and sustain a satisfactory examination of the same.

The degree of Master of Arts may be conferred upon Bachelors of Arts who have been engaged for three years in literary pursuits, and sustained a good moral character.

Bachelors of Science, of three years standing, may receive the degree of Master of Science, provided that, since graduation, they have sustained a good moral character, and pursued some literary or scientific calling.

Application for these degrees should be made to the President at least two weeks before the Annual Commencement, and the usual fee of five dollars advanced.

STUDENTS NOT IN COURSE.

Students who do not wish to pursue a regular course are admitted into any of the classes to pursue such studies as they may choose, under the regulation of the Faculty. Special classes may be formed when the Faculty deem it expedient.

LITERARY SOCIETIES.

The Societies, of which there are three--the Zethegathean and Philomathean (composed of gentlemen) and the Aonia (composed of ladies), have each their respective halls and libraries.

READING ROOM.

The Reading Room is supplied with some of the leading periodicals of the day, to which each student may have access by paying a term fee of fifteen cents.

BOARD AND ROOMS.

Board and furnished rooms in the village can be obtained at $2.50 and $3.00 a week.

Many Students rent rooms and board themselves, and thus materially reduce their expenses. Good rooms for this purpose can be had at from $12.00 to $15.00 per term.

Ladies and gentlemen from abroad may not, without special permission of the President, board in the same family. In all cases the place of boarding must be approved by the Faculty.

RELIGIOUS EXERCISES.

The duties of each day are opened with religious exercises in the Chapel of the University, at which all the students are required to be present.

On the Sabbath they are required to attend public worship in the forenoon and evening, with some congregation in the village, seselected by themselves or by their parents.

The student also sustain prayer a weekly meeting.

ILLUSTRATIVE MATERIAL.

A collection of the important minerals is provided for students in Chemistry and Geology.

Large numbers of Fossils and Rocks, illustrating the Geological Periods from the Potsdam to the Triassic, have been collected and purchased.

There is also a series of Mounted Birds; several cases of Insects; many Skins of Birds and Mammals; Skulls and Skeletons, and Alcoholic Specimens, which, though not all yet arranged for public exhibition, are available for study and comparison.

Several thousand duplicate specimens of the above are on hand for exchange, and will be catalogued as soon as circumstances will permit.

The Laboratory is furnished with sufficient Apparatus and Chemicals for the instruction of classes in Theoretical and Practical Chemistry.

REQUISITES FOR ADMISSION.

Applicants for admission to the Freshman Classes are examined in the studies of the Preparatory Courses.

Candidates for advanced standing in either course are examined in all the studies previously pursued by the classes which they propose to enter.

Equivalent studies in the same departments of learning will be accepted in place of those enumerated. On presentation of proper certificates, students may be admitted without examination in studies that have been successfully pursued in other schools. Evidences of good moral character are required in all cases; and certificates of honorable dismission are expected from those who come from other colleges.

French or German may be substituted in the Classical Course for a portion of the Greek and Higher Mathematics; and in the Scientific Course, the entire time allotted to these languages may be devoted to one of them.

COMMERCIAL DEPARTMENT.

The Business Course of Instruction properly embraces four departments: Preparatory, Junior, Middle and Senior, to which may be added a fifth class—Ornamental Penmanship and Pen Drawing. Each department is subdivided into three Divisions—A, B, C. In each department the student is required to stand an examination, Scholarship and Deportment being marked on the College Register.

PREPARATORY.

Includes a thorough analysis of the nature and uses of the different books kept by business men, Language of Trade, and Commercial Definitions.

DIVISION A.

Introduces the student to a miniature business world, in which he leases store, invests capital, engages salesmen, purchases a stock of goods at the Merchants' Emporium, and commences life as a merchant.

DIVISION B.

Continues the business already commenced, introducing exercises in Ruling, Spelling, and Business Correspondence, with frequent examinations.

DIVISION C.

New and more intricate transactions are introduced in business involving a thorough understanding of the rule of journalizing.

Frequent drills in Ledger Headings, Closing of Books, Business Papers, and Penmanship.

JUNIOR.

This Department includes Complete Accounts, Forwarding and Commission, Mercantile Correspondence, Commercial Arithmetic, and Commercial Law.

DIVISION A.

Embraces more advanced transactions in trade, introducing a new form of Double Entry Book-keeping, in which less amount of writing is necessary to give a clear and accurate account of business transactions than in any form of single entry now in use.

DIVISION B.

Here he commences business with Assets and Liabilities of previous set, admitting a partner with additional capital Introducing transactions in Shipping and Commission, use of Bills of Exchange, Notes, Checks, and Drafts, Account of Sales, together with Discounting business with the Bank, and Partnership Sales, with exercises in Spelling and Defining.

DIVISION C.

Comprises Wholesale and Retail Merchandising, Jobbing, Joint Stock Companies, Discounting Notes with Bank, Equation of Payments, short methods of Addition and Multiplication, Mercantile Correspondence, and Business Forms.

MIDDLE.

This Department contains the most difficult and complicated transactions that can possibly occur in business, testing to the utmost the student's knowledge of the principles of the science.

DIVISON A.

Method of changing books from Single to Double Entry represented with great clearness; Second Method of Compound Companies, and a great variety of interesting and difficult computations introduced. Examinations daily.

DIVISION B.

First set of Forwarding and Commission transactions become still more complicated, and illustrate a great variety of entries, rendering the merchant expert in Journalizing; Law of Promissory Notes, Drafts, Bills of Exchange, &c.

DIVISION C.

Comprises a thorough practical review of actual business; Examinations daily in Arbitration of Exchange; Discounting Notes; Equation of Payments, including the more intricate problems in Forwarding and Commission, where losses have been sustained by accident in transit, by fire, &c., with examples in Bankruptcy.

SENIOR.

This Department contains the Express, Steamboat, and Railroad Offices; Merchants' Emporium and Banks.

DIVISION A.

This Division is devoted to Express, Railroad, Steamboat, Insurance, Exchange, and Real Estate Business. Through these offices all freight is passed by parties representing various interests in different parts of the country, to others at opposite ends of the lines. Each student is required to fill the several positions in offices, each in regular gradation, until he becomes familiar with the entire routine of business.

DIVISION B.

This is the merchants' Emporium, and represents business as conducted in a first-class wholesale establishment in one of the great cities.

From this establishment all students purchase their first stock of goods, and through its offices all Merchandise is shipped and actually delivered.

Upon emerging from this thoroughfare of business life, and sustaining a critical examination in all the previous Departments and Divisions, together with an analysis of Commercial Law, if found qualified, he is introduced to

DIVISION C.

This contains the College Banks, which are actual Banks of Deposit, Discount, and Circulation, having regular subscriptions for Shares of Stock, issued as complete in every appoitment as any chartered city institution.

Provided with their own Bills, Specie, Checks, Notes, Bills of Exchange, &c., &c., furnished with full sets of books, and the business done with as much accuracy and dexterity as in the most complete establishment in the metropolis, Students act in every capacity, from Bookkeeper to President, holding the regular offices in their turn. No similar institutions in the country are conducted more in accordance with State and National Laws on Banking than are these. After passing through this Department, if proper attention has been paid during the course, the Student sustains an examination, and is awarded a Diploma as Master of Accounts, which assures him, if accompanied with the other qualifications necessary in any vocation in life,—energy and perseverance,—an honorable place in the arena of active life, and eventually, competence.

GENERAL INFORMATION.

MATRICULATION.

All who enter the University are expected to conform to its usages and regulations.

The Rules of the institution are based alone upon the moral and social requirements of good society; and Students who are not able and willing to deport themselves as ladies and gentlemen, will not be allowed to maintain their connection with the School.

ATTENDANCE AND SCHOLARSHIP.

A record is kept of the Scholarship and general Deportment of each Student, an abstract of which is sent to the parents or guardian at the close of each term.

EXAMINATIONS.

At the close of every term there are public examinations of all the classes, in both Collegiate and Preparatory Departments.

DEGREES.

The degree of Bachelor of Arts is conferred upon all students who have completed the prescribed Classical Course of study, and passed a satisfactory examination therein; and the degree of Bachelor of Science upon all who have completed the Scientific course, and passed a similar examination.

The degree of Master of Accounts will be conferred on all who complete the Commercial Course, and sustain a satisfactory examination in the same.

The degree of Master of Arts may be conferred upon Bachelors of Arts who have been engaged for three years in literary pursuits, and sustained a good moral character.

Bachelors of Science, of three years standing, may receive the degree of Master of Science, provided that, since graduation, they have sustained a good moral character, and pursued some literary or scientific calling.

Applications for these degrees should be made to the President at least two weeks before the Annual Commencement, and the usual fee of five dollars advanced.

STUDENTS NOT IN COURSE.

Students who do not wish to pursue a regular course are admitted into any of the classes to pursue such studies as they may choose, under the regulation of the Faculty. Special classes may be formed when the Faculty deem it expedient.

SOCIETIES.

There are three Literary Societies in the University, two conducted by the gentlemen, and one by the ladies. These Societies have good halls, and have commenced the formation of permanent libraries.

READING ROOM.

A Reading Room has been opened in one of the apartments of Commercial Hall, and is supplied with some of the best literary, religious, and political periodicals of the day.

RELIGIOUS EXERCISES.

The duties of each day are opened with religious exercises in the Chapel of the University, at which all the students are required to be present.

On the Sabbath they are required to attend public worship in the forenoon and evening, with some congregation in the village, selected by themselves or by their parents.

The students also sustain a weekly prayer meeting.

ILLUSTRATIVE MATERIAL.

A collection of the important minerals is provided for students in Chemistry and Geology.

Large numbers of Fossils and Rocks, illustrating the Geological Periods from the Potsdam to the Triassic, have been collected and purchased.

There is also a series of Mounted Birds; several cases of Insects; many Skins of Birds and Mammals; Skulls and Skeletons, and Alcoholic Specimens, which, though not all yet arranged for public exhibition, are available for study and comparison.

Several thousand duplicate specimens of the above are on hand for exchange, and will be catalogued as soon as circumstances will permit.

The Laboratory is furnished with sufficient Apparatus and Chemicals for the instruction of classes in Theoretical and Practical Chemistry.
